

Course Name: The Role of the Company Safety Officer

Course Overview: This two day program, created by an OSHA compliance officer and an industry safety professional, is designed with the company safety officer in mind.

Course Length: Two (2) days

Who Should Attend?

- Company Owners / Operators
- Safety Officers (both new and experienced)
- Compliance Officers
- Field Foremen
- Supervisors

You will Learn:

- Understand OSHA and it's relationship with the Tower Erection industry
- Be able to research and locate OSHA standards affecting the tower erection industry
- Be able to read, understand, and apply OSHA standards related to the tower erection industry
- Develop, implement, and evaluate a comprehensive company safety and health program.
- Recognize, identify and eliminate job site safety hazards that affect employee safety and health
- Understand and explain recordkeeping requirements, including both OSHA and non-OSHA requirements.
- Be capable of conducting a thorough accident investigation.
- Identify, through recordkeeping, costing and trending job related accidents, and how improvements in the safety management program can result in improved financial performance for the company.

Prerequisites: None

Course Content: Day 1

Introduction to OSHA

- OSHA Standards affecting the tower industry
- Reading the CFR
 - How to apply standards (vertical & horizontal)
 - Compliance with the standards

Elements of a Professional Employee Health and Safety Program

- Implementing the program
- Evaluating the outcomes of the program

Day 2

- Conducting A Job Hazard Analysis
- Identifying occupational hazards
- Tying hazards and OSHA standards together
- Elimination of the hazard
 - How OSHA views hazard elimination
- Linking hazards into the site safety plan

Recordkeeping

- OSHA recordkeeping requirements
- The OSHA 300 / 301 logs
- What recordkeeping can do for you

Safety Officers Role in Accident Investigations

Using the Safety Program as a Cost Savings

Workers Compensation savings

- Illness / injury rate vs WC premium

Final Exam

Questions / Comments

Recognition of Attendees

INSTRUCTORS: Steve Wilder, CITCA
Jocko Vermillion, OSHA

